THE ECHO
YEARBOOK OF 1922
of the
MILWAUKEE STATE
NORMAL SCHOOL.

DOROTHY LAMB.

FOREWORD

THE 1922 YEARBOOK of the Milwaukee Normal School means to us who have compiled it an effort to give the spirit of the year — the good cheer, the earnest endeavor, the fine purposes, — in such manner that today you can read with pleasure and entertainment, and tomorrow, when years have gone, and you harken once more to the dreams of youth's glad thoughts, that you can read and dream again.

Alma Mater

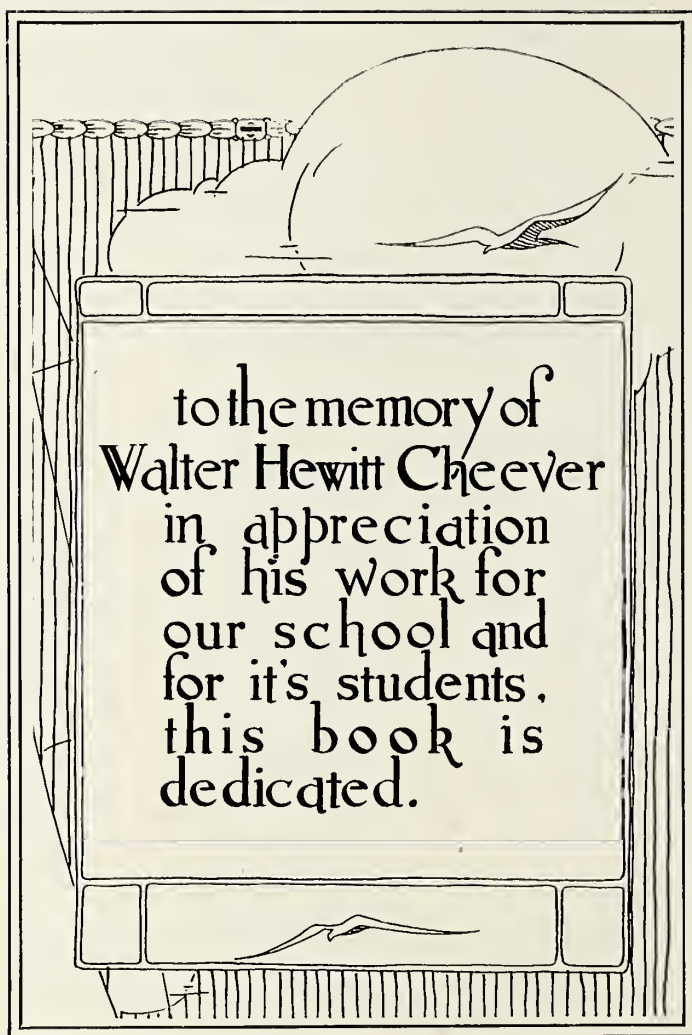

By old Michigan's proud waters,
Rolling waves of blue,
Stands Wisconsin's fairest Normal,
Alma Mater true.

Beacon light of truth and virtue,
Pointing wisdom's way,
Flooding all our earthly pathway
With her guiding ray.

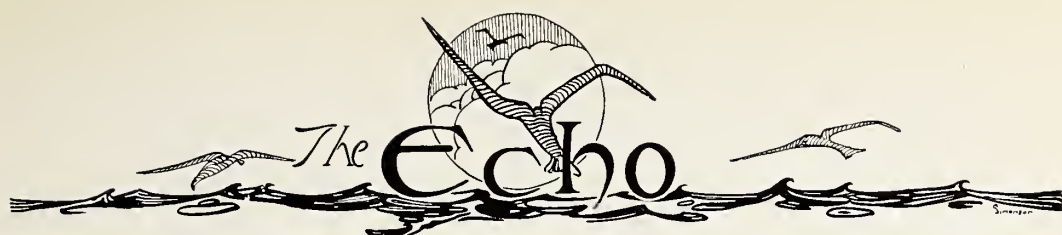

Stately ships turn to the harbor
From the stormy sea;
So our hearts upon life's ocean
Fondly turn to thee.

CHORUS

Sing her praises, let the chorus
Ring o'er land and sea;
Hail, Milwaukee, Alma Mater,
Hail, all hail to thee.

to the memory of
Walter Hewitt Cheever
in appreciation of his work for our school and
for it's students, this book is dedicated.

History of the Class of 1922

The morning of September 14, 1920, found us with other students flocking from every direction to the Milwaukee State Normal. Among the gathered crowd were countless new and courageous faces which were destined to make a history during their stay here. The first few days we gazed proudly at our fellow Seniors—industrious and active. But soon we, too, set forth with a determination and with an aim to achieve success. Under the able leadership of our Junior class president, Harry Stoll, we began to enter into all the phases of school life, and soon gained prominence as a class.

On November 12, 1920, we were kindly welcomed to the Milwaukee Normal School, at the Senior Reception. New acquaintances and friendships were formed that evening which strengthened the growing bonds of our class. In the spring of 1921, it was a wholly different body of Juniors that successfully entertained the Senior class at the Junior Reception.

This class, which was starting in pursuit of knowledge, stopped on the wayside to enter into clubs, societies, forensics and athletics. Each new Junior found his place in one of these school organizations and entered into its activities with enthusiasm.

The new men were all received by the Men's Club, the only organization for all the men of the school. All the new Junior girls were accepted into the Good Fellowship League, an all-girls organization.

The Girls' Auxiliary, which was organized in the fall of 1920 for the purpose of backing all the athletics of the school, received much aid from the new Juniors. These same girls, led by Ellen Byrnes, this year have shown an encouraging and helpful spirit by selling tickets, by creating enthusiasm at games, and by keeping the men's athletic suits in condition.

During our first and second year the Social Committees of our class and the Social Committees of the various school organizations entertained at many club, society and matinee dances. The greatest social event of our first year was the Junior Promenade April 22, 1921. Those who attended will always remember the beautifully decorated gymnasium, the splendid music, and the pleasant evening.

During the first year, many of our class members took an active part in the Music and Art schools. The presentations at various times from these departments convinced us that all were pushing ahead, each in its own line of interest.

In the 1921 contests for debate were found many Juniors. Experience gave most of the places to the Seniors of that year, but included Sam Haber, a member of our class.

The preliminary oratorical contest of 1921 revealed many aspiring Juniors, and proclaimed the winner to be a Junior—Carroll Christenson. His oration was exceptionally well given at Platteville in the Inter-Normal Contest.

June 7, 1921, ended the promising record that we had begun. Each one left his work at the end of the year with but a single thought, that of enlarging and bettering it in the year to come.

A year had passed. But the morning of September 13, 1921, saw the return of this large and energetic class. Again, happy and light-hearted, they stepped into all phases of school life with a marked enthusiastic spirit. There was a unanimous desire to complete and increase the record which we had begun. The zeal shown was bound to bring this class into prominence.

We opened the social year, as is customary, by the Senior Reception. The new president greeted and welcomed the Juniors to Milwaukee Normal School. The dance which followed afforded an opportunity for every one to become acquainted. During the evening, several clever solo dances were given.

During the first few weeks of 1921, elections were held for major offices. LeRoy Rieselbach was elected Senior class president. Ellen Byrnes was chosen president of the Good Fellowship League with Jessie Wood, Helen Marsh, Martha Black, Bernadine Hammes and Marjorie Johnson, as Senior members of the board. The Girls' Auxiliary, with Ellen Byrnes as president and our capable Senior girls, continued to back the athletics of our school.

The Men's Club elected Gordon Hecker president. The re-organization of the Men's Club resulted in the formation of a Men's Council. The members of this men's club of the school have been very active this year in raising funds to furnish their clubroom, and make it a room where the men of our school can meet and become acquainted.

This year the Student Council also came back as an active organization. It was composed of the Men's Council of the Men's Club, the Board of the Good Fellowship League, and their faculty advisors. This body represents the students of Milwaukee Normal in many important phases of school life. Besides furthering the interests of the students, and improving conditions here at school, this year's members have discussed and brought before the attention of the school such matters as scholastic standings for major offices, uniform club and society rules, and elections for editor of the Annual Echo.

In the football squads of 1921 and 1922 were found many fighting Seniors. Moerschel, Strathearn and Brown earned their letters both years. Again, in basketball, Foley, with Stoll and Christensen, represented our class. Last year's successful baseball season included Phillips, Eckstein, Kamerling and Strathearn of our class. The prospects for the 1922 baseball season are very bright. The aspiring track athletes of our class last year were Tyre, Jung, Brown and Reed. Max Raskin was the handball champion of Milwaukee Normal in the 1921 Tourney.

The girls of our class have been very efficient in athletics. Florence Shaw, May Crump, Ellen Byrnes, Flora Jordan and Alma Karsten, members of this year's Senior basketball team, have made an honorable record. Many of our girls entered the indoor baseball contests, indoor track meet and tennis this spring.

The Seniors, following the precedent set by them last year, held their Promenade in the men's gymnasium on January 27, 1922. This Prom, which was our great social event, was a decided success. Again, the members of the social committees of the Senior class put forth untiring efforts and made the party an epoch in the social season of the year.

The debating season of 1922 opened auspiciously with many of our class present in the tryouts. The question, "Resolved that the Kansas Industrial Court Law shall become a national law," was most ably and creditably presented. Wilber Katz, Martha Black, J. E. Delwiche, with Adell Schott as alternate, represented the negative, which won from Whitewater in the Triangular Contest, and which was sent to River Falls to the Inter-Normal Contest. The affirmative side composed of Louis Mallory, Sam Haber, Ben Lieberman, with Harold Sanville as alternate, won from Platteville in the Triangular Contest and also won from Stevens Point in the State Championship Contest. This year's victories were due to the faithful determination of each debater and to the efforts of their coaches, Miss White and Mr. Schnaitter. The debaters, with the exception of Delwiche and Sanville, were all Seniors, and the record they have achieved will go down in the history of the school as a memorable one.

Again in oratory, through the efforts of a member of our class, we have gained prominence. Many of our class entered the preliminary contest. The first place was given to Carroll Christenson, who represented our school at Stevens Point. Here, in the Inter-Normal Contest, he was given second place by a fraction of a point, which enabled him to go as alternate to the Inter-State Normal Contest.

The dramatics of the past two years have been enlivened by many students of our class. They participated in the dramatic club productions, in club and society productions, and in the Senior class play. The Union Vodvil was managed by Orville Gesell, Gordon Hutto, Austin Trull and others of this year's class.

Our members, who are in the Art school, have made a name for themselves this year, because of the very fine character of the posters and their clever stunt at the May Fête. The students from the Music school have responded untiringly to calls for good music.

These and many other things have been made possible by the conscientious efforts of each individual. The fame of this Senior class rests upon each graduate, who by his accomplishments, has contributed to this creditable showing. Great credit is due to the Faculty, and to our president, Mr. Pearse, whose guidance and help have made all these things possible.

The history of the Class of 1922 closes with the Commencement Exercise. But as we go on in life, each in our chosen way, we cannot forget the tasks, pleasures and joys, which we have experienced during these two years at Milwaukee Normal. We shall each carry away pleasant memories which will bring back thoughts of our class. And when in the future we look back upon our class we shall know that it was an active and progressive one.

Senior Class Poem

A young sculptor toiled and fashioned with his masterpiece.
 His body was bent.
 His eyes glistened bright with a feverish light.
 His lips were parched.
 His skilled fingers molded and shaped the soft, moist clay.
 So he worked on day after day,
 And at last thrilled exultant,
 Realized his dream!
 But, alas! He failed when it came to the test.
 His soul was rent; his heart grew cold.
 The world seemed bitter and held naught but darkness for the lad who had toiled.
 Many there were who cared not.
 Few there were who sympathized.
 But there was one who understood, who comforted and soothed his wound,
 Gave him new life and spurred him on
 Until he reached — the pinnacle.
 And so we work on, day by day.
 Oft times discouragement comes our way
 Oft times hopelessness and despair stumbles through our hearts.
 Then it is that some friend has faith in us and says,
 "Rise — On."
 Were it not for the friends who understand, who keep faith and spur us on,
 No man could scale the steep, rough grade.
 No man could rise, succeed, or live—
 Without a friend.

WILMA LEONHARDT.

Class Prophecy

All the world
Was excited over it,
Even his "Normal" classmates
Who knew him best
Could not quite understand it;
For he had never seemed like "that kind of a boy"

When he argued for the Men's Club Room
Or

The Student Council.

But the facts were there.

Even the foreign newspapers

Devoted front pages

To the scandal.

The Zschetskzco

Of Russia

Read as follows:

PRESIDENT WILLIAM DOWNER

Of the United States

Will wed

For the third time.

Has been divorced twice before.

His first wife, GLADYS MATTER,

Divorced him because he drank coffee

Occasionally;

And he divorced his second wife,

EVELYN BARRY, formerly from

Oconomowoc,

Because

She insisted on

Playing solitaire on Sunday!

The Zschetskzco went on to say

That he had received

His B.A.

From RIESELBACH'S School of Philosophy

And his M.A. from

FRED PRICE'S School of Self appreciation

Then followed

A brilliant political career

As Constable of Sun Prairie

And finally the presidential election

With the ceremony

About to take place.

Let us pack

Our collapsible pocket trunks

And board the aeroplane train
For the White House.

We are sorry

That the pretty conductoresses,

The KEELYN TWINS and MARGE

OLMSTED

In their neat red uniforms,

Can not find substitutes

So that they, too,

Could join

Our gay party.

We feel a trifle uneasy with

FRED PETERS as motorman but he assures us that

He holds diplomas from

The leading aeroplane schools

Of the day,—

Those of MARION JANKOBIAK

And EVELYN HEINEN.

At the flat aeroplane landing at the White House

We are met by

The Secretary of State, JESSIE WOOD;

Chief Justice, VIOLET HIGGITT;

And Attorney-General, CHET JUNG

Who conducts us

To the room of festivity.

How good it seems to meet again

J. GORDON HECKER

Who has returned from the far Arctic regions

Where he has been

Painting barber stripes

Around the North Pole

And how fine to see

The Mr. and Mrs. DELANEY, the latter

Née ESTHER JOHNSON,

Carrying their ten months old twins,

And

EVELYN ALLCOTT and ADA BELLE
Smith

Of Ziegfield Follies fame

And

After a few warm greetings

Five imposing musicians entered the room.

Of course, there was

DOC HYDE, HELEN DRISCOLL,
HAROLD SANFORD,
WILLARD MEDWAY, and LLOYD
THOMAS.

The music from the two Baby Grands
The saxes, and drums sympathetically
strummed

Liebenstein's
Wedding march.

A. JOHN KROMBHOLTZ sang
"Oh Assure Me."

All the ladies wept and the men
Blew their noses.

Then the bride tripped down
The long stair case.

Everyone said that MARTHA BLACK
Would make Bill a good wife.

She wore a gown of crepe machine
Trimmed with lilies of the violet.
She carried an immense gorgeous corsage
Of "Don't-you-forget-me-nots."

There were eight bridesmaids,
MARIE EICHHORST, ELLEN BYRNES,
MAY CRUMP, WILMA LEONHARDT,
ESTHER LONG, and
HARRIET PLOCKARZ, all gowned
In the latest organdie knickerbockers.

The flower girl,
HELEN MEIGS,
And the ring bearer, LOYAL DURAND,
Drew up the procession.

As the solemn line
Neared the altar
It was joined by the groom
Wearing, for tradition's sake, the Prince Albert
Which his

Great Grandfather
Was wedded in.

Neither the groom nor his best man,
ROY STAUFF,

Where the least bit ruffled;
For they had both been through
The same experience many times

Before;
Then the minister, HARRY STOLL,
Read the ceremony without stumbling over a Word.

BILL kissed his wife
And soon everybody else
Was kissing her, too.
Then there were many congratulations
Which I could not understand.
The wedding dinner
Of sandwiches and lemonade followed.
How daintily FRED De HARDE and
The STATHEARN brothers
Served all, and impartially, too!
After the dinner

We all were given a pillow
And told to sit out on the lawn, and then
What a treat!

Then WILBER KATZ
Appeared in costume
And rendered the dance of the Egyptian mummy which Broke up the party.

TO WHOM IT MIGHT CONCERN:

The bride and groom, for tradition's sake, went to Hales Corners for their honeymoon
where they had first met.

Will you forgive me, please if I have hurt your feelings? I didn't mean to. Will you, whom I have not mentioned, be everlastingly grateful to me?

History of the Junior Class

The Junior Class is the largest, peppiest class that ever attended the Normal School. It started out right by electing the following class officers:

President	Arthur Nicolaus
Vice-President	Philip Geil
Secretary	Lucile Saveland
Treasurer	Alice Reynolds

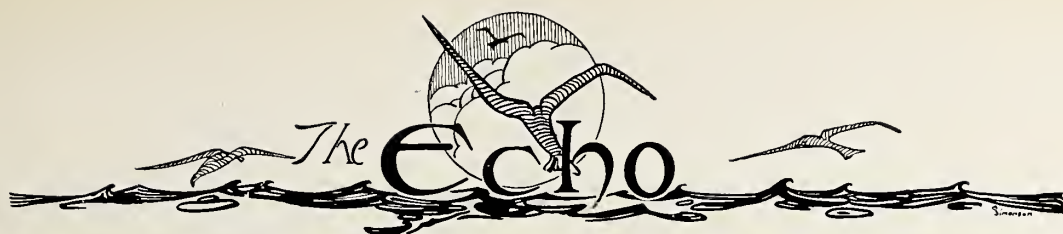

The spirit and enthusiasm of the Junior Class was shown when one of their members, Sylvester Sherer, was elected Editor-in-Chief of the Echo.

After the Senior Reception, the Juniors held a reception for the Seniors in the gym. It was very well attended and proved a real mixer. Dancing and musical numbers by Juniors were given between dances for entertainment.

Never before in the history of the school had such elaborate preparations been made for the Junior Prom. The Prom Chairman, Evan Schwemer, had planned a week of activities before Prom. They used to be satisfied with just Prom night, but now we had pre-Prom plays and dances. Wednesday night was the Senior class play, "Nothing But The Truth." Friday morning the pre-Prom play, "A Proposal Under Difficulties," was presented. Friday night King Evan Schwemer and Queen Catherine Enwright led the Grand March at Prom, which concluded the week of pleasure.

Rural Group

The 1922 Rural Group began active hostilities early with complete organization—and a Hallowe'en costume party. Alma Semrod, represented us efficiently on the Good-fellowship board and Herbert McNamara on the Men's Club board. Thanksgiving was duly celebrated with a big dinner for a poor family.

On Washington's birthday it was the plan to hike to the County Agricultural School at Wauwatosa. In the annals of Normal there is no record of an adventure more heroic. Ice covered the landscape; the rain fell in torrents and yet the dauntless band made the pilgrimage, meeting with a reception so warm that no one remembered that the elements might have been kinder.

Rural Group

Perhaps the most unique experience of any group at Normal is that of the Rurals at practice teaching, for these intrepids go into the country for eight weeks where their experiences are many and varied. This year, as the spring was so reluctant to appear, we had a taste of the real thing in difficulty in negotiating country school problems, but not one of us was really ready to come back for the four weeks of class work.

Thus endeth the chronicle of the busiest bunch at Normal, the bunch that never has an elective but always draws a full program.

State Graded Group

The first social event of the year for the members of the State Graded Group was held on the Monday before the Christmas vacation, in which a dinner in the cafeteria and dancing and games in the Girls' Gym were the features. The girls of the class took part in a number for the May day fete given by the Goodfellowship League. A visit was made later in May to state graded schools in the county, and an annual open-house day was held during which rural problems were discussed.

Milwaukee Normal 1886-1922

Milwaukee has the fifth place in the list of State Normal Schools, in order of foundation. The first steps for the establishment of a Normal School were taken in 1880, when the legislature empowered the Board of Regents to establish at Milwaukee a State Normal. The plans were finished and the building at 18th and Wells Streets was ready for occupation in June, 1885. John J. Mapel, principal of the Milwaukee High School, was the first president elected. It is interesting to note that Miss E. W. Strong, who is still on the faculty, was one of the original faculty members.

The great services of President Mapel were the efficient organization of the new school—always a hard task—and the establishment, in 1891, of arrangements by which students might do their practice teaching in the city schools as well as in the training school of the Normal. This is probably the greatest achievement in the normal department in the history of the whole school, as it makes an almost unlimited field for practice teaching, without which the school could not progress.

On the resignation of President Mapel in April, 1892, L. D. Harvey, now President of Stout Institute, was elected to succeed him. During President Harvey's administration, an addition to the building was made. The four-year high school entrance requirement was introduced at this time.

President Harvey resigned in January, 1899, and until April, 1900, Mr. Walter H. Cheever acted as president. Although offered the presidency by the Regents, he preferred to remain a teacher rather than to become an administrator.

The third president was Charles McKenny, now President of Ypsilanti (Michigan) State Normal School. During his tenure of office, a large increase in enrollment so taxed the facilities of the school that entire new quarters were necessary. The Kenwood Boulevard-Downer Avenue tract was secured in 1907, and building was begun at once. The graduation exercises in 1909 were held in the assembly room of the incomplete building, and the next session was held in it, although it was still incomplete.

The Echo

Immediately, as is so often the case, the new building was found inadequate, and agitation to build an addition was begun. It bore fruit in 1912, and the new wing which caused the front to be on Downer Avenue instead of Kenwood Boulevard, was built. An editorial written in 1915 states that this building, the present one, can house comfortably one thousand students; there are now over seventeen hundred, and there have been no additions.

Plans for a great Teachers' College plant have been prepared by Walter Burley Griffin, the landscape architect who prepared the accepted design for the city of Canberra, the capital of the Commonwealth of Australia.

President McKenney resigned in 1912 to accept the presidency of the Michigan State Teachers College, Ypsilanti. After a year, during which Mr. W. H. Cheever was Acting President, Mr. Pearse became President. He had been superintendent of the city schools and was popular in the city. He was well known throughout the nation as a successful school man, and under his administration the school has come forward with steady step. Not only the departments in which teachers are prepared have increased greatly in enrollment, but during the nine years of his service, the college department, inaugurated two years before he became president, has increased rapidly.

The School of Fine and Applied Arts had been organized as a department of the Normal School in 1911; the School of Music was organized in 1914.

The enrollment grew from about six hundred in 1911 to over seventeen hundred this year, a gain of over eleven hundred, nearly two hundred per cent, in eleven years.

During the war, a unit of the Student Army Training Corps, the famous "S. A. T. C.," was organized, with a regular army officer in charge. Its actual existence was comparatively short, but the memory of it is long.

So far the administration of President Pearse has been successful in a marked degree. Differences of opinion there have been, both within the school and with outsiders, but the school has been administered with a broad view both of its duties and of the policies which it should pursue. An administration of this character is likely, at times, to be misunderstood.

The great thing for all students and alumni is to give loyal and unquestioning support to their school and to co-operate with the President in his efforts to guide the school to better things—to the best things that await it in the future.

Looking Forward

The school year 1921-22 has been one of unusual activity and progress for Milwaukee Normal. In fact, there are very few years in its history that may be compared with the advances made during the last ten months. And, it may seem peculiar to mention that the most dominating of all of our notable achievements has been the advancement and the culture of what this institution has so long lacked—genuine and sincere school spirit.

Oldtimers are loud in their praises of this great addition to the routine of our school life. We are all ready to admit that circumstances at Milwaukee Normal are not of the kind to engender this loyal student spirit without a certain stimulus or effort. The same has been true of all previous years—everyone was only too ready to admit that real school spirit at Milwaukee was an impossibility and dismissed discussion on the subject with a nonchalant "it just can't be done."

But it remained for the students who are enrolled in the school at present to uncork that touch of life which every one of our activities needed as a sort of vitalizer and to put across in an overwhelming way that student spirit which has now become a part of the old school itself. On the athletic field, on the campus, in the classroom, in our organization and club activities, and in our assembly convocations that spirit made itself very evident. The knocker became a booster, the pessimist had visions of a brighter future, and the entire student body took new life and in an inspirational manner resolved itself to "talk and live Milwaukee Normal." And, of course, with proper spirit there is but one outcome and that is success. Let us review in part that great summary of success.

The Men's Club awakened to greater realization of its possible activity and developed itself into a stronger and more active organization than it had ever been before. A club room project was undertaken in which the old room of dusty walls, dim lights, and scarred tables was transformed into a comfortable room with clean, freshly painted walls in a cheery ivory color, with the finest and best inverted lighting system, and with inviting chairs and tables. The work stands as a monument to the men of 1922.

The Student Council, a body of student representatives from every student organization and activity in the school, was formed and carefully organized to give its best support to the school administration. The Council did much in its dealings with student affairs to keep the student spirit at a high standard.

But how about the future? How will Milwaukee Normal look in years to come? Surely, with spirit of the kind that has been developed this year, a school must grow and then you will ask, "But what will be done to accommodate the students of tomorrow?"

The State of Wisconsin is owner of the vast expanse of land to the west of our school building. Plans for a greater Milwaukee Normal include a large campus on the site of the land now owned. Upon this campus it is planned to erect the building which will be known as the Normal School of tomorrow. At the present time plans are being completed for the erection of a magnificent Art and Music College building in which a suitably spacious assembly hall for the whole school is to be included. It will be but a few years before a new gymnasium is erected. Already the athletic stadium has been started. Truly, the life of Milwaukee Normal is still in its very infant stage.

While we are patiently waiting to see the completion, or the partial completion, of the plans for Milwaukee Normal, let us boost the school and give it our earnest support. We may never, as students, witness the reality of the school of the years to come, but we can all get shoulder to shoulder and work and strive for the greater and bigger school of the future.

To bring the women of the school into closer fellowship by promoting the spirit of unity among them and to serve as a medium in keeping the standards of the Milwaukee Normal School high is the purpose of the Goodfellowship League, and its work this year has been such as to honor this aim. Several well-known women addressed the school under its auspices: Miss Jane Addams, Mrs. Ben Hooper, president of the League of Women Voters, Miss Helen Bennett, of the Chicago Vocational Guidance Bureau, and Miss Kenney, of the First Wisconsin National Bank. Numerous parties and teas, a May fete on May 2, and a Junior Birthday party were also held. Besides this the Girl's Rest Room was redecorated and refitted with curtains, mirror, couch covers, and remodeled furniture.

The following members do not appear on the picture: A. Bertschy, J. Rude, B. Hammes, B. Backlin, M. Schaaf, M. Johnson.

The big enterprise of the Men's Club this year has been the refurnishing of the Club Room. After much discussion as to what should be done, a few fellows started to paint the room. A professional painter was soon hired and the result was a fine looking room in light gray and ivory. Two stags were put on to raise funds for the furnishings. Various organizations helped the cause. The Menorah Society gave a large share of the proceeds from their production of the "Melting Pot." The Union Vodvil, instead of purchasing a gift as usual for the school gave the money to the Club Room Fund. Groups of girls held candy sales to raise money. Carroll Christenson, the winner of the oratorical fund, presented his twelve-dollar prize to the fund. The Senior Class applied part of their gift to the Club Room. The men of the faculty subscribed one hundred dollars, and lastly the men students of the school conducted amongst themselves a drive for funds and raised enough to finish up the Club Room in fitting manner.

Stillman-Kelly Club

PresidentDessa Willis
 Secretary and Treasurer.....Doris Mott

Stillman-Kelly Club has had a very active and eventful year. The club sang for the Teacher's Convention and had a banquet at that time in the Cafeteria. A masquerade was held on St. Valentine's day, and Mr. Anhalt entertained at dinner just before the Easter vacation. Probably the biggest event of the year was the trip to Stevens Point with the school orator. Any club member can tell you all about the thrills of the trip. Other festivities in the Spring, a formal dance in May, a beach party, and other social diversions, were all highly successful.

FACULTY ADVISOR — Mrs. Anhalt

This years dramatic accomplishments were numerous and noteworthy: "Trifles," "Overtones," and "The Rising of the Moon," all in the assembly, and the big production of year, Jose Eschagany's well-known tragic drama, "The World and His Wife." Jo Pachaly and Elton Hackett did commendable work in directing the assembly one-act plays, while Mrs. Anhalt received much co-operation in her capable direction of the latter play. A new workshop in gold and black was obtained during the year.

The first important event of the year was the initiation party in which blood-curdling experiences were undergone by new members. The History Club has the distinction of being the first organization in the school to hold a Dinner Dance, which it did on December 2.

Shortly after Easter a theatre party was given and a formal dance was held.

Le Cercle Francais

President	Harold Sanford
Vice-President	Violt Higgitt
Secretary	Frederick Price
Treasurer	Max Raskin

FACULTY ADVISOR — Miss Schirmer, Mr. Purin.

The main interest of Le Cercle Francais was this year centered on French 18th and 19th century drama. The lives and works of the dramatists of France were studied by means of lecture, papers on various topics, and acting of short scenes from the plays of Beaumarchais, Marivaux, V. Hugo, Labiche, and Maeterlinck. Besides these dramatists much study was given to Moliere, the Shakespeare of France. The important holidays in the French calendar were celebrated, such as Christmas, Mardi Gras, and Easter, with due justice to the customs of the French. French songs were heard at almost every meeting. A musical program, given over entirely to French composers, was given to the delight of the members. Perhaps the most important work of the French Club was the public presentation, under the direction of Miss Schirmer, of "Le Malade Imaginaire" on November 17. The play was presented in celebration of the tercentenary of Moliere. Another of Moliere's plays, "Les Precieuses Ridicules" was presented before the school body on May 11, 1922. The year's work was very creditable to the organization. Much of the credit must be given to Miss Schirmer and Dr. Purin, who worked so admirably for its success.

The Mathematics Club was organized on October 8, 1919, for the purpose of fostering interest in mathematics. Its membership is unlimited in number and open to every student in the school. This year the club devoted most of its time to the history of modern mathematics, the study of number systems, and some of the practical applications of mathematics in different lines. Mathematical "wrinkles" and games, as well as "strictly mathematical" refreshments were also included on the regular programs.

The meetings of the association, held once a month throughout the year, have brought together the girls to discuss ways of earning money and to have a good social time. In the spring of each year, a convention, the I. K. U., is held — this year at Louisville, Ky., — and four members of the local association are chosen to go as delegates. During the various holidays the girls made up baskets for the poor, or dressed dolls, or conceived place cards and favors and sold them.

The English Club, the only honorary scholastic club in the school, devoted most of its time to original writings this year. During May, a contest was held in which every member participated. Prizes were awarded for the best compositions. Likewise, a study of modern poetry was arranged in co-relationship to the Modern Poet Lecture course given in Milwaukee throughout the season.

Union Vodvil Association

The third year of Union Vodvil has proved an unqualified success. There is no doubt that the standard of the acts has been higher each year and the popularity of Union Vodvil has kept pace with this improvement. The 1922 program, presented May 5th, was selected after the elimination of nearly twice the number of acts.

The task of selecting the acts and the management devolves upon the Union Vodvil Staff. The staff is of the perpetual order, being composed of the people of the previous year's staff plus their junior assistants. In this way there is a certainty that an experienced staff will handle the representative acts of the Vodvil.

The following are officers and committee members of this year's activities: Production Manager, O. W. Gesell; Assistants, A. Trull, E. Hackett, Fred Peter; Electrician, Lester Wegner; Stage Manager, Fred Schneider; Assistant Stage Manager, Roy Stauff; Publicity Manager, G. W. Hutto; Assistants, LeRoy Rieselbach, Ruth Garbutt, Jo Pachaly; Ticket Manager, G. W. Hutto; Assistants, Harold Schee, Austin Trull, Catherine Enwright, Alice Reynolds.

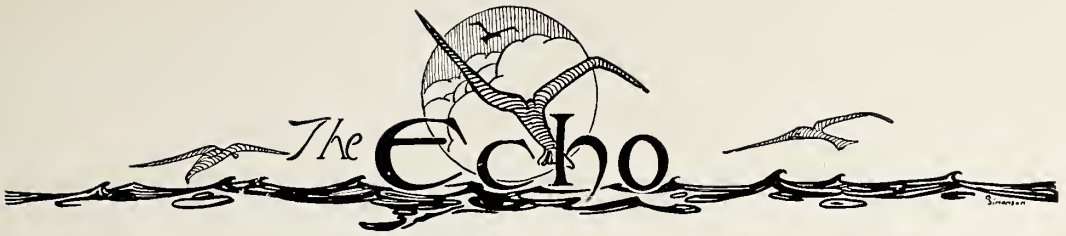

Girls' Athletic Auxiliary

President Ellen Byrnes
Vice-President F. Claire McCutcheon
Secretary and Treasurer Gladys Matter
Roll Call Camille Rodino

FACULTY ADVISOR — Miss Day

Although an infant organization, the Girls' Athletic Auxiliary is enthusiastic in its purpose of helping at every point the athletic activities of the school. With a membership this year of over two hundred girls, the Auxiliary performed its mission admirably. The football, basketball, and baseball games were attended and boosted. Telegrams were sent to the teams when they were out of town. Sweaters and emblems were presented to the men. A mixer and a theatre party were the means used to raise the money for these duties.

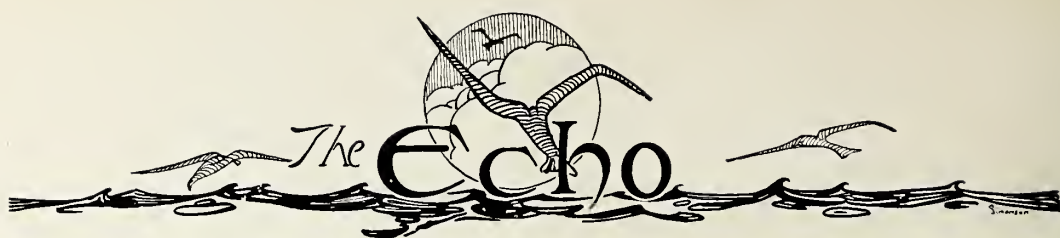

Treble Clef Club

President Wilma Leonhardt
Secretary Helen L. Schlitz

FACULTY ADVISOR — Mrs. Hoe

The Treble Clef Club was organized at the beginning of the third term by Mrs. Hoe, who serves also as director. Although a new organization, it is expected that excellent work will be done in furthering an interest in the best in music, in developing a practiced technique in part singing, and in broadening the knowledge of its members in choral music. Besides the musical pleasures derived from the club, the girls are looking forward to having many pleasant social gatherings also.

Student Council

ChairmanLeRoy Rieselbach
Vice-ChairmanJessie Wood
SecretaryFrederick Price

The Student Council is a representative group of students who act for the student body in all cases in which it is not advisable to hold a mass-meeting. It constitutes a method of expressing student opinions and student desires to the Faculty. The members of the Council are the duly elected members of the Men's Club executive board and the Goodfellowship League board, thus every student is reached and his opinions made known. The Council has no actual power, but is merely an advisory and recommendatory body. It is interesting to note, however, that in every case the faculty has been entirely in accord with the recommendations of the Council.

On May 4, 1921, the Spanish Club was born. Today, under the name of La Tertulia, the club is a real organization with the high aim of more intimate acquaintance with Spanish countries, their music, games, and habits. At the programs throughout the year this purpose was lived up to. Miss Steinfort, with her trip to Spain last summer to talk about, did much to make the club an extremely active organization although only in its second year. Viva! Viva! La Tertulia!

Philocopia, or the "Deaf and Dumb Man's Friend," has lived up to its fine reputation this year with its honest endeavors in its work. The sacred precincts of Al held numerous good times for the girls on such occasions as their initiations and meetings. One of the major events of the calendar was the Philocopia dance, as was the Annual Banquet given at Mr. Winnie's home. A splendidly fine spirit was upheld throughout the whole year.

Utopia Society is literary in its aims, and is essentially a story-telling club. During the year interesting meetings have been held, and on several occasions the members have had their meetings in the form of luncheons together. Beach parties and other out-of-door frolics are the order during the spring months, taking the place of the indoor meetings. Our new advisors, Miss Heiny and Miss Shafer, take the place of Miss Jacobs and Miss Seibert, who have left us, and the times we have had together have been most highly enjoyable.

Although organized primarily as a literary society, Erodelphia, has, during the past year, held first and foremost the endeavor to give its members good, wholesome get-togethers. The rendezvous of the girls was at Miss Michaels home on Kenwood Boulevard. In February, an informal dancing party was held in the school gymnasium. Settlement work interested the members, and brought them much new knowledge of settlement conditions.

Pythia is becoming quite mature. With Miss Shafer as her dear friend and advisor, the society has completed its nineteenth year and now bids goodbye to her "teens." The topic for discussion and study this year has been the short story. The Initiation party in November and the Valentine party in February were chummy and amusing affairs, and occasions Pythians will always remember.

Concentrated effort was made this year by the Aglaia Literary Society in its study of Social Settlements and Social Centers. Under the supervision of Mrs. Allison, the work was taken to practical observations in the Thirty-Seventh Street Social Center where Aglaia's became acquainted first hand with the method of social center organization. One out of every three of the regular meetings was devoted to a social program, and beside several parties, an annual dance was given on February 10.

Philatheans have spent the season 1921-1922 profitably and happily. They spent the time studying Wisconsin authors. During part of the time, ten minutes of each meeting were devoted to the study and practice of Parliamentary proceedings. Among the social events of the year were the initiation of new members, Christmas, St. Patrick and Easter parties, and a hike. All the members feel that this has been a truly worth-while year.

The big event of the year was the study of humorous plays at the regular meetings, but the Initiation party and the Xmas party were never-to-be-forgotten events. Clio has as its main purpose the study of Wisconsin women authors. Papers were read this year on Edna Ferber, Zona Gale, and other women of whom Wisconsin is proud. The social functions started with a dance in the gym shortly after Christmas. A formal dance followed in February in the Plankinton Mezzanine Room. Pennants were sold before football games, and an act was arranged for Union Vodvil to raise money for the Men's Club Room. The year was highly succesful for Clio in every way.

The Milwaukee Normal Menorah Society, one of the seventy branches of the Inter-collegiate Menorah Association, is the only Normal school Menorah Society in the association. Its aim, that of studying and advancing Jewish culture, has been successfully upheld in its work this year. Six lectures from prominent people were arranged, and a dramatic presentation of Zangwill's "Melting Pot" was made under the direction of Mrs. Anhalt. The entire year's work, with the play as the outstanding feature, is a good indication of the trend of future Menorah work.

The Gibbons Club, organized about ten years ago, for the moral and social welfare of Catholic students, has enjoyed a most prosperous year. The membership has steadily increased from year to year, until Gibbons Club now numbers more than two hundred members.

Beginning on September 29th, the club had regular bi-weekly meetings. After the business meeting, a short informal program was usually presented, followed by light refreshments.

On September 17, the first Saturday after the opening of school, the Gibbons Club and the Y. W. C. A. gave a joint picnic at Water Tower Park for the new students in the school.

At the annual initiation party, October 14th, at the K. C.'s, over one hundred new members were initiated into the club.

The club members were entertained informally, November 18th, at the home of Father McEvoy.

A Christmas party was given for the children at the St. Rose's Orphanage on December 20th.

On February 10th a large informal dance was held at St. John's Cathedral Auditorium.

A most interesting program was presented to the Girls' Industrial Home on February 24th by members of the club.

The club rested from social activities during the Lenten period. The meetings during this time were held weekly at St. Rose's Orphanage where topics of a more serious nature were the subject of discussion.

The club's annual beach party was held the middle of May at Lake Park.

The Alumni Association of the Gibbons Club, organized during the Teacher's Convention at a banquet held at the Republican House, entertained the members of the active club at an informal party in the early part of May.

The big event of the year for Gibbons Club was the annual informal dancing party held May 26, at the Knights of Columbus Ballroom. This dance marked the conclusion of the activities of the Gibbons Club.

Gordon Strathearn, Football Captain

Milwaukee Normal's 1921 football season was marked by many disappointments. At the out-set, it was difficult to get games. As the season advanced, several of the strongest members of the squad sustained injuries which kept them on the bench most of the season. At the end, we lost two games which under more favorable circumstances might have been won. The loss of "Mike" Stone, through an eligibility ruling, in the Whitewater and La Crosse games was a hard blow; Harold Larson's injury, that kept him out practically the entire season, was another. Then George Nickel broke some small bones in his foot just when he was hitting his stride and filling Larson's place nicely, putting him out of commission for five weeks. Carroll Brown, fighting guard of 1920, was also out practically all the season through injuries. Perhaps this was just the average luck of a football season but the cumulative effect was too much for a squad with such limited material as Milwaukee's.

One of the brightest spots in the story of the 1921 season was the way in which the squad stuck to the grind. After the first sifting reduced it to about 35 men, every member of the outfit stayed out till the final game, something that has never happened at Milwaukee Normal before, and a favorable sign for the future.

Over-confidence Costly

Perhaps the hardest condition to overcome last fall was the false confidence generated by the decisive victories over Northwestern College and Carroll College at the start of the season, after these institutions had shown so well against Beloit and Marquette. In the game with Milton, which Milwaukee won, 55 to 0, the team played miserably, and it entered the La Crosse scarcely set for so hard a battle. Deprived of the services of "Mike" Stone, after reaching the scene of the battle, the team rallied splendidly. To have held La Crosse to a 0 to 0 score, under these conditions, was the team's biggest achievement of the year. The effort made in that game left the team in poor shape, however, for Whitewater a week later and we lost 7 to 0, a tough game to lose, for while Whitewater earned its victory, it was outplayed during most of the game, and no Milwaukee man will concede that the result represents the normal strength of the two teams.

In the final battle of the season, against Stevens Point, Milwaukee was defeated, 12 to 0, by an eleven that on the day and field, was probably the equal of any Normal team in the state. Every member of the green and white squad was jubilant the day before at the prospect of a hard, fast field, but a thaw in the night left the gridiron a mass of sticky, heavy clay that was all in favor of the visitors with their beefy line and smashing attack. The big break of the game went against Milwaukee, when after holding the Point on the four-yard line, Stone was forced by the bad end zone to kick from within six yards of the line and his punt was recovered by the Point team scarcely five yards out. Here, on the last down, Holman dived over the line for a touchdown. The Point eleven held the advantage, and near the end were much stronger than Milwaukee. Their final score came when Eagleburger made a great run of 40 yards around end near the close of the game. It was a clean, hard-fought, fairly-earned victory that was no disgrace to the losers.

Splendid Spirit

Individual mention of the members of the 1921 squad is impossible in the space available. Their spirit was fine and at its best, the team was about as good as any Normal team in the state.

Stout Institute won whatever championship honors may be awarded by going through the season undefeated, though it played only three conference games. Oshkosh, when in its top form, probably was the strongest team in the state, though defeated by La Crosse, 7 to 6, the week after the latter had been tied by Milwaukee. La Crosse lost later to River Falls, 7 to 0. Both Stevens Point and Milwaukee, when defeated in midseason, were playing without their regular quarterbacks.

Bierbach Scoring Touchdown in Milton Game.

The Echo

Milwaukee will have a better schedule in 1922, and with the expectation that Captain "Mike" Stone, quarterback; Vallier and Schuck, halfbacks; Bierbach, fullback; Geil, Brown, and Bielefeld, guards; Nickel, tackle; Shectman, center; and possibly one or two other regulars who are still eligible, will be back, as well as a number of the reserves who look certain to make the team, it seems reasonable to hope that the team will be the best since 1918, when Milwaukee tied La Crosse for the state title.

Milwaukee Normal Basketball

CaptainAnton R. Christensen
ManagerEdward Schweers
CoachBarney Anderson

Coach Anderson faced a terrific task when he started the 1922 basketball season. With but one regular and only three emblem men back, he was compelled to build practically a new team. The loss of Captain Eddie Loehr in midseason was irreparable, but the boys held together and displayed an united fighting spirit that left nothing to be desired in that direction.

Victories over the "Old Grads," 25 to 23, and the University Extension five, 22 to 8, gave a nice zest to the opening of the season. A close game in which the Varsity lost to the regular alumni by a 26 to 23 count was no discouragement as the opposition had such stars as Kibbe, Wolters, Hametter, W. Morgan, Strange and other clever graduate players who are still at their best. It was a costly game as Captain Loehr broke a bone in his hand and was out of the line-up for a month. The last preliminary game was a victory over Concordia College, 16 to 11.

Milwaukee opened its Conference season at Platteville and won a great game, 20 to 15, after overcoming an eight-point lead. The following week we dropped a good game to Carroll, 22 to 13.

Three days later, La Crosse came to Milwaukee with the best Normal team that has been seen here in many years. With dazzling speed, great shooting and a wonderful floor game, they never gave us a look-in, winning 37 to 13. Lenken's great work in scoring nine out of 11 free throws alone made our score look plausible. But two goals were scored, one each by Loehr and Hipke.

The second Carroll game, at Waukesha, was a great battle in which the home team did not tie the count until within 15 seconds of the closing gun. Two five-minute overtime periods were needed to give Carroll a 20 to 16 victory. The addition of Harry Stoll at this time strengthened the defense and permitted shifting Lenken to forward.

After this game, the "jinx" got a firm hold on us that was not relaxed during the balance of the season. Against Stevens Point, though we played a good game, the ball simply refused to drop for us while the Point men won on a succession of long shots, 19 to 12.

The loss of Captain Eddie Loehr at this time through failure in studies was the last and hardest blow. Platteville caught us at this time and evened up by handing us a 24 to 10 trimming.

The gloom was raised a bit by an overtime victory over our ancient Whitewater rivals, in a thrilling finish, in which we ran the 18 to 18 tie count to 22 to 19 in the extra period. Playing Oshkosh, with a veteran team on their own floor, Milwaukee was outclassed and lost 26 to 4.

As a partial compensation for other disappointments, we defeated Whitewater in the final home game, 15 to 9 Stoll and Wulff, at guard, holding the purple forwards to a single field goal. Every man on the green and white team played "over his head," Lenken dropping in four field goals. Captain Christensen played a brilliant floor game.

The big sleet storm near the end of the season led to the calling off of the last two trips, to Stevens Point and La Crosse.

The spirit of the 1922 squad was splendid. The men fought with all they had in them, pulled together like one man, and simply lost when they were against teams that had natural advantages in skill and far greater experience. For that reason, the season of 1922 is considered a successful one by those who know our condition. With no basketball played

Although without a regular veteran from previous years, the 1921 cross-country squad at Milwaukee Normal went through a profitable, if somewhat disappointing, season. The chief setback, from the standpoint of interest, was the failure of the Northwestern College team, of Naperville, to come to Milwaukee for the race arranged with them for November 5.

In the final tryout to pick Milwaukee's team for this race with Northwestern, which we had beaten at Naperville in 1920, the order of finish for the four-mile course was: Herman, Werneke, Jenss, Tyre, Barnes, and Rauch. Herman ran a fine race and much credit should also be given to Werneke, who entered the race in poor condition, having been sick. Al Jenss and Captain Tyre of the track team joined the cross-country squad to build up for spring track work and both gained greatly from their fall work.

The green Normal cross-country team this year was beaten in practice runs by Riverside and South Division high schools, but won from Bay View High. Interest was good and 25 men stuck through the entire season. All but a few of them will be back next year, and in addition we shall have some excellent new men in 1922, including Henry Jacobsen, state high school cross-country champion, who entered Normal in February.

After a lapse of a year, the annual turkey race was revived and 40 men entered. The classic was run over the mile course on Kenwood boulevard. Freudenberger won, carrying off the turkey; Koegel, second, and Price, third, being awarded chickens, while Shabaz, who finished fourth, got the fresh egg. Barnes, who stopped to halt a runaway horse, came in last and was handed the lemon.

Fruits of the policy of promoting cross-country running in the high schools at last became evident this year in the matriculation at Normal, in that Jacobsen, as noted above, and several of the high school harriers are expected to enter next fall. In the seventh annual cross-country championship race for high schools, already mentioned, 40 runners competed. South won, with Riverside second, Washington third, and Bay View fourth. The first ten men to finish were in this order: Jacobsen (S) Mehigan (S), Cline (E), Eggebrecht (S), Sowinski (S), Lister (Wn), Henkel (E), Klugge (E), Bergstrom (BV), Martin (S). Jacobsen's time, 19:29 3/5, was remarkable, surpassing that of many college runners.

Much of the success of Milwaukee Normal's cross-country season was due to assistance from Coach Charles Kahle, of Riverside high school. Football engaged all of Coach Downer's time and compelled him to turn the work over to Mr. Kahle, who volunteered to help out.

Milwaukee Normal's 1921 track season was the best in the history of the school. Starting with only fair prospects, the team developed steadily, winning decisively in dual meets with Lake Forest College and Carroll College, and, though beaten by Ripon, closed the season in the proverbial blaze of glory by capturing the state normal championship at Madison, June 4. Detailed scores of all these meets are published on other pages.

The story of 1921's successes is that of an earnest, hard-working squad, animated by a fine team spirit, giving their best efforts in the face of many heavy handicaps. Coach Downer brought the men along slowly, pointing them solely for the State Normal meet. The first victories were encouraging, and the defeat by Ripon, which team we have met for four years and never beaten, was in no sense discouraging.

State Meet is Goal

It early became evident that men like Captain Van Ells, Thiessenhusen, Foley, Regan, Tyre, Jung, and others would, if they could all be at their best for the conference meet, give us a good, fighting chance for the highest honors. Early the point was stressed that if we lost everything else and won the State meet, our season would be a success.

From the opening event of the Conference meet, Milwaukee was in the running, and though the class of competition was much better than in previous years, as witness the nine records broken, the fine conditioned and balanced strength of the green and white team, with 41 points, triumphed by a clear margin of six points over La Crosse, which finished second, Stevens Point, the 1920 champions, finishing third with 27 points. Of the nine new records made, Milwaukee accounted for five, Ray Thiessenhusen leading with a double victory in the half and mile, setting a new record in each. Van Ells broke the old shot record by over a foot, Tyre clipped four-fifths of a second from the furlong mark and the relay team ended the day by cutting the time in that event to 1:36 $\frac{1}{5}$.

In the dual meets, some fine performances were also recorded, especially by Captain Van Ells, whose broad jump of 21:03 against Lake Forest, javelin throw of 148:09 and shot put of 40:04 against Ripon, were new Milwaukee Normal marks, surpassing the State normal records.

Good Material Left

For 1922, the team has some fine material but will still work under many handicaps, especially the lack of suitable training facilities for early season practice. Another handicap is the danger that comes to all teams which start with a number of veterans—the very grave danger of over-confidence. With this guarded against, and no bad luck in losing men, Milwaukee should make a hard fight to retain its honors, though all our leading opponents are much stronger this year than last.

A good start was made by the relay team sent to Madison, February 25, to compete in the University relay carnival. This team lost the inter-collegiate race to Beloit by a narrow margin, after a creditable fight. The members of the quartet were Tyre, Stone, Donovan and Shuck. They led for the first three relays, but an unlucky pick-up on the final relay gave Beloit the race.

Baseball, 1921

CaptainArnie Ross
 ManagerHarry M. Golden
 CoachBarney Anderson

The baseball emblem men were: Captain Ross, Strathearn, Captain-Elect, Thisted, Phillips, Kammerling, Eckstein, Jacobs, Wards, Meyers, Lederer, Johnson, Foley, Jones and Fisher.

Arnie Ross, Baseball Captain

Baseball was a big success at Normal in 1921. Coach Anderson had charge of the team and through his hard work produced a winner—a baseball team which compared favorably with all others of previous years. The men of the school welcomed the first call for baseball practice with a turnout of over 50 men. During the first ten days, nothing but light workouts were held. After the squad was given a thorough tryout, it was cut to about 20 men, with which Barney settled down to work out a winning combination.

But one game was lost, and that to the University of Wisconsin team, which ranked among the leaders of the "Big Ten" conference. After that game, the Green and White won eight straight games.

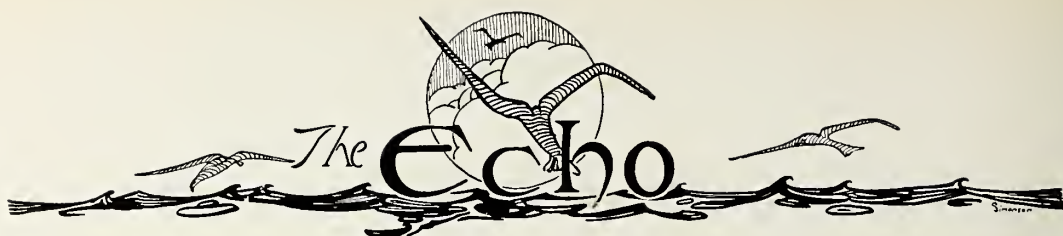

The personnel of the team was of the highest caliber. Infielders were Capt. Ross, Johnson, Phillips, Foley, Fischer, and Kammerling; outfielders, Jacobs, Wards, Eckstein and Jones; pitchers, Captain-Elect Thisted, Lederer and Meyers; catcher, Strathearn.

Whitewater Normal 0; Milwaukee 1

This game was featured by the wonderful twirling of "Chief" Meyers. He turned down the enemy without a hit or a run. He is our entrant to the Hall of Fame.

St. John's M. A., 9; Milwaukee, 13

Such a slugfest had not been seen in local baseball history for a long time. Timely slugging by our heavy artillery spelled defeat for the Academy team.

Carroll, 3; Milwaukee, 5

This game was very close and full of thrills. By this time, the wonderful teamwork and spirit of the Green and White was becoming evident. The game was a close pitchers' battle.

U. of W. Extension, 6; Milwaukee, 21

Milwaukee was never in danger in this rather listless, unexciting game.

Whitewater Normal, 4, Milwaukee 5

Our second game with Whitewater was a fight from start to finish. In the first inning Phillips of Milwaukee started the fireworks with a screaming triple to right field, which ended up with a score. This lead was never overcome. Thisted pitched a cool, heady game.

Carroll, 0; Milwaukee, 8

Milwaukee's heavy artillery knocked Carroll off their feet. This game was replete with close plays on the part of our infield. In the first inning, Carroll threatened to score, but a quick double play, Strathearn to Johnson to Strathearn, put a stop to this threat. From then on, Mose Thisted had the enemy eating out of his hand.

U. W. Extension, 6; Milwaukee, 8

Milwaukee faced this aggregation with a badly battered line-up. We held the lead throughout the game. Our defense tightened up whenever the opposition began hitting a bit and the final score showed Milwaukee's superiority. "Lefty" Lederer did the twirling for Milwaukee.

Girls' Athletics, 1921

Girl's basketball shared in a general revival of interest in athletics among the women students of Milwaukee Normal school this year and more girls participated in the games of the inter-departmental league than ever before. The relaxation of some of the restrictions on sports by the medical department, while it involved no change in the policy of carefully safeguarding students' health, encouraged interest in the games and there was a record turnout for the teams.

A tournament was planned and departmental teams were organized, for each of which 20 to 30 candidates turned out. The women members of the physical training faculty coached the teams and as soon as the material was somewhat sifted, captains were elected for each of the teams, as follows: Grammar Group, Elsie Wilson; College Group, Evelyn Hart; Primary Group, Florence Shaw; Kindergarten Group, Adelaide Prescott.

Eventually, the squads were cut to the regular teams and substitutes, about 40 players going through the season. The tournament was won by the strong Grammar Group team, which won every game and finished the season with a total of 60 points to 20 by all their opponents. Elsie Wilson, as captain, made a great record.

After the tournament, teams were chosen to represent the Senior and Junior classes in the real classic of the girls' basketball season—the annual class championship battle. The best players from all the departmental teams were considered carefully and when the Senior and Junior aggregations took the floor, Thursday, April 6, they contained the best girls' basketball talent developed this year in Milwaukee Normal school.

The championship game itself was never in doubt, but was far more hotly contested and of greater interest than the score suggests. The Seniors won by a score of 26 to 12, before a big crowd of basketball enthusiasts which represented all departments of the school and which cheered both sides impartially for every good play.

Oratory

The past year was the most successful one ever enjoyed by the oratorical association of the Normal School. E. M. Goodman was elected president and Helen Marsh, secretary. There were more participants in the oratorical contest and debates than any previous year. The reason for the pronounced success of forensics this year was because of the interest manifested by the student body so early in the school year. The local contest brought forth some splendid orations, and still more pleasing was the great diversity of the topics, ranging all the way from a plea for a solution of the economic problems to a eulogy upon a poet. The earnestness and sincerity of all the speakers showed a complete mastery of their subjects, and proved that the time spent upon them was fully compensated for.

Carroll Christenson duplicated his last year's success and won first place again in the local contest on February 16. His topic was "Makers of Men," and he proved himself such a master of it that he won for himself and the school the second place in the State Oratorical Contest at Stevens Point on March 17. Carroll's work at Stevens Point was equally as good as that displayed in our local contest and at first there was some doubt as to the real winner. A final remarking was necessary to determine who was entitled to first place between Milwaukee's and Superior's representative. Carroll becomes alternate in the Inter-State Contest which is to be held at Macolm, Ill.

But the real success of forensics this year lay in the interest taken by so many students in the classic. No student, unless he has participated in the contest, can appreciate the benefits that come to him who enters. The feeling of real accomplishment can only come to him who can confidently say something that is of vital interest to all. As in the athletic field, determination and grit are necessary attributes, and in those who take part in the contests, are those better qualities always to be found present.

E. M. GOODMAN, President.

Debating

The year of 1921-22 has been a period of awakened and renewed interest in debating and forensics in general. Milwaukee has had a successful year in debating, and a great deal of its success probably has been due to this revival of interest among the members of the student body. The members of our teams have shown themselves to be debaters of good calibre and worthy of the support and co-operation which was given them. With teams whose members were determined to win, and with an interested student body, Milwaukee was able to take second place in the debates for the state championship.

A call for those persons who wished to try out for debate was issued late in the fall by Mr. Schnaitter, the coach. Nearly fifty persons responded, and after intensive preparation and study, the preliminary debates were held in January. The question for the year was: "Resolved, that the Kansas Industrial Court Law be made a national law, constitutionality being conceded. From the people who took part in the tryouts, Wilber Katz, Martha Black and J. E. Delwiche were chosen for the affirmative team, and Ben Lieberman, Sam Haber and Louis Mallory were selected to uphold the negative side of the question. Adell Schott and LeRoy Reiselbach, for whom Harold Sanville was later substituted, were chosen as alternates. Then followed weeks of preparation and study of the question as the debaters worked to perfect their logic and argument. Little has been said or written concerning these weeks of hard work, but, nevertheless, it was during this time that the basis was laid on which to gain later victories.

On March 3, the first series of debates was held. Milwaukee's affirmative team met the team from Whitewater in the auditorium of our school, and at Platteville our negative team clashed with a team representing Platteville. The members of our affirmative team demonstrated their superior ability over their opponents and won a 2 to 1 decision. At Platteville, our negative team sent their opponents down to defeat and came home with a 3 to 0 decision to their credit. By this double victory, Milwaukee won the championship of the Southern Normal Debating League and the right to participate in the state contest.

The debaters immediately set to work to prepare for the state contest and after a short period of preparation the teams took part in the contest for state honors, which was held on March 31. Our negative team remained at home, and our affirmative journeyed to River Falls. Steven's Point sent a team to Milwaukee. The seasoned warriors of our negative team scored a decisive victory over their opponents and the decision was given to them. At River Falls our affirmative team after a plucky fight was defeated by the River Falls team in a hotly contested debate. Because of its victory in this series of debates, Milwaukee was awarded second place in the contest for the state championship.

The coaching of the teams was in charge of Mr. Schnaitter, Miss White, Mrs. Anhalt, and Miss Shafer.

— HAROLD SANVILLE.

THE RE-ECHO ANNUAL

Foreword

RECENT discoveries in the world of science have revealed to us a startling fact as to the nature of echoes. To use the words of Dr. I. D. Clair, Professor of Physics at the University of Kamchatka: "The reflecting and return of sound waves, popularly known as the echo, is a process in which, even under the best conditions, the original waves are changed and mutilated, resulting in sounds materially disfigured."

Dr. Clair's discovery was brought to our attention after our Echo had gone to press and resulted in no little anxiety and trepidation. A further study of the works of the learned professor, however, gave some suggestion of remedy. Professor Clair writes that "if the Echo be in turn Re-Echoed, and the process reversed, then the true sound will accurately be reproduced."

In the interest of truth and accuracy, therefore, the staff presents this Re-Echo Annual, disclosing, as it does, members of the faculty in their moments of relaxation; revealing students as they know themselves; and throwing upon the whole school life the spot-light of a pitiless publicity.

To My Buddy Dodge

Oh, my Buddy, darling Buddy, my true friend, my Buddy Dodge,
 Would that I could tell the feeling which within my heart doth lodge;
 Would that words could paint the picture of the love that fills my soul—
 Fills my soul, and for each sorrow doth my aching heart condole.
 Oh, the troubles which we dearlets must endure from day to day,
 As we try to keep our lassies from the city's Great White Way;
 When the boys are all so naughty and girls go dressed in pants;
 When they twist and turn and wriggle in contortions as they dance;
 When the powder, paint and lip-stick ruin Nature's girlish tone;
 When the skirts of short dimensions show us that they "roll their own."
 Then, with heart weighed down with sorrow, Buddy Dodge, to you I go.
 With your cheerful, friendly rattle, you will charm away my woe.
 For your pulses, strongly throbbing, give me many a deep-felt thrill,
 And with every throb and quiver, love into my heart instill.
 Oh, the pleasant hours I've nestled in your well-
 upholstered arms,
 Listening with wrapt attention as you tell me of my charms.
 You have kept my heart still tender, though my hair
 is streaked with gray;
 You will keep my spirit nourished, though my flesh might pine away.
 Buddy, though your clutch be weakened, and your voice to whispers sunk—
 Oh, my Buddy, never, never—will I sell you off for junk.

Senior Class Poem

(As Read by Susie N. Souplate at the Commencement Exercises.)

Dear Normal School, we hate to go and leave thee in the rut;
We fain would linger here awhile before we pass on, but Stern Daughter of the Voice of God—Grim Duty—cries, "Behol'!"
The way is long and hard and rough, and distant is the goal,

[sighs]

So up and on, ye well-armed ones, the laggard only shirks;
The time hath come, now bear thy load—for Gimbel's need the clerks."

Stern Duty calls; we answer, as your faithful children ought;
Besides, we need the cash—Away, thou mercenary thought.
With heavy hearts and ice-cold feet reluctantly we leave
To follow Duty's course, with onward steps the world relieve.
Of weary worries, sorrows sad, and pains, with which it's fraught;
These and a thousand other things—we'll sell Snake Oil, eh what?

Oh School, we sob "Farewell," to thee, dear school, adieu, adieu,

[tears]

We never can pay back the debt of gratitude to you

[Voice: "Gee, I still owe my class dues"]

One more fond look, one passing sigh, one solemn sad farewell,
And then we part, dear, fond, sweet school, thou grandest place to dwell.
But, Oh beloved, beauteous soul—for surely thou hast life—
My heart doth break at parting time; console me in the strife.

Oh, would that in our midst there dwelt a Wordsworth or a Poe
Who could write less in lesser time and still have less to show.
But though this little poem of ours is not so great of verse,
Remember, then, enchanting school, it might be slightly worse.
Besides, you realize, dear school, our love is of the best.
Farewell—the last—for Duty calls; we leave thee now to rest.

Organizations

The House Committee

The work of the House Committee has been one of the great marks of progress during the past year. The purpose of this body is to clean up the school. At the end of the preceding year, it was very evident that a great deal of rubbish of a miscellaneous nature had been allowed to collect in the corridors and assembly. Dr. Purin, the chairman of this committee (shown in the center) has been untiring in his efforts to sweep up the accumulation of refuse material. This debris was then condemned to the fires of the lower regions.

Aquadelphia Society

Aquadelphia has just completed a most successful year studying the Art of Self-Appreciation. Unfortunately this picture was taken before all the members had secured the official costume which is shown, however, on the person of J. Alden Capoon, the president. The habit was designed by him with a view to reaching the maximum of freedom in self-expression. He styles it the "Pettyshirt." Harry Stoll, corresponding secretary, is (accidentally) in the position showing to best advantage the "Mighty Left" which has even intimidated the faculty advisor, Grant Cookie.

Organizations

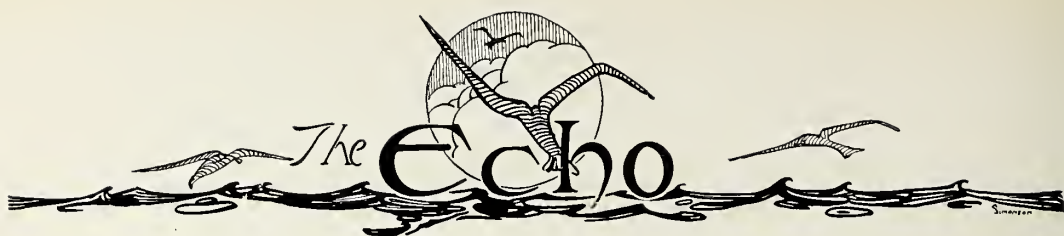

Goodfellowship League

The Goodfellowship League has just completed a most successful year in promoting cordial and friendly relations among the women of the school. Their success in promoting real, feminine friendship is well shown by the soft, charming paws of the members of the Executive Board, shown above. One would not imagine — — — — —.

Hydrophobia Literary Society

Hydrophobia has had a most successful year devoted to the study of all forms of mania prevalent in the school. The membership has been by application since all were felt to be well qualified. As faculty advisor, the Hon. Harvey A. Uber showed great skill and personal understanding of these important problems. The group picture shown above was taken just outside of the kennel on the day of the annual field day exercises. Miss Jessie Wood, the president, is shown demonstrating the official "Pose Polyphobia," the dance of the club.

Man to Super-man

(Apologies to Joyce Kilmer.)

I think that I have never met
A mate for Charley Hawtrey yet,
A girl who would, through lack of fear,
Assume the role and call him dear ;
A one, who in her heart could feel
Him worth the cooking of a meal ;
Who in her mind, her heart, her soul,
Proclaim him king, and play her role.
Poems are made by fools like me ;
But only God could make Hawtrey !

Femininity

I mark the brilliant color of her cheek,
The pretty, tilted snub of powdered nose,
The childish treble voice, so soft and meek,
The silken swish of super-stylish clothes.
I note the bright cascade of bobbing locks,
The charming smile of ultra-carmines lips,
The naughty lure of dainty rollèd socks,
The cutex manicure of finger tips.
I see the arch of brow so thin and black,
The lashes darkened, long, and curling sweet ;
I see the wrap of fur — from throat turned back —
The arctics flapping, clicking down the street.

But 'neath it all a heart of gold has she,
And Lord, how I love her — and she loves me !

Dear Mamie:

My boy Charlie goes to that Normal School, you know, so I went up there yesterday to see what kind of a place it is, because of course I always feel it my duty, seeing he's the only son I have and I'm the only mother he has, why, I naturally want to know what his environments are when he's away from home, which is a good deal because he studies sociology at school and he says the only way to be a good citizen is to know your fellowman and he says how can I know my fellowman when I'm the only man in the house. His father is not a fellowman, but a parent so he needs to be out among his fellowmen and I think his fellowwomen, although when his father said to him Young Man, it seems to me you should say fellowmen and fellowwomen, Charlie says, very quick, Oh, man embraces woman; and his father said So I judged from the condition of your coat-front, and dear Charlie looked very sharply at his father and sort of snorted, and his father laughed, but I must say I don't see what the joke was and I think Charlie didn't either, because when I said Is that funny? he said, Yes, as funny as a crutch, but, Mamie dear, did you ever see a crutch that was funny? Sometimes it is very hard to understand dear Charlie.

Well, I wanted to see what kind of a school this Normal place is, although just from its name I could tell it was a nice, decent institution with none of these awful fads of new thought and spiritualism and all. But, oh, as the dear poet Longfellow said What's in a name? But let me tell you things in order. I went visiting in a room where they studied Natural Science, not birds and grass, Mamie dear, but an angleworm, which was passed around the class so that each one could touch its back to prove it was smoother than his front, and right away I was glad I was in the front row, having sat there so as not to miss anything important, because by the time the angleworm reached the back row he was looking rough on all sides from the handling. But don't misunderstand, Mamie dear, because you know its fine for people to know about angleworms being rough on one side, in case of ever holding one you would know which side to pet it on, which would be pleasing to the dear worm who is a God's creature like the rest of us, Mamie dear, and aren't most people rough in one way and smooth in another? Which deeper thoughts I think the boys and girls in that class weren't thinking, because they all looked so sleepy and vague-like. Charlie says all first hour classes are that way—the girls all seemed to be just finishing combing their hair, and the girl beside me used a powder puff without even trying to hide it in a handkerchief, Mamie dear, and one fellow tied and untied his necktie and finished lacing up his shoes, so by the end of class time everybody seemed to be just about woke up.

The next class I went to with my boy Charlie was a lecture course, he said. In that class the teacher talked the whole hour, without asking any questions, while each boy and girl seemed to have a lesson to read to himself while the professor talked, all except the people in the very front row, but I don't know just what the lesson was, because some had newspapers folded up small, and some had small magazines, and some had books, and they all hold them low down on their knees, or sort of casual-like among other books, and I was pleased to notice how careful they were when they turned pages, doing it so slow and quiet like, so as not to disturb the professor, I think, and once when a leaf caught on a girl's sleeve and rattled, and the professor stopped a second, the rest of the class just stared at the girl in a very threatening way, so all this talk about young people not being respectful to their elders must be just slander.

And the dear young people have such quaint jokes! My boy Charlie showed me the Boys' Club Room which taught me a good lesson, because you know Charlie always said a fellow doesn't like too many things cluttering up a room, and it surely is the truth, Mamie dear, because there in that Club Room which belongs all to the boys, there wasn't a single bit of furniture, but the walls were well painted, so it was a very airy room, and the strong smell of tobacco which many people would misunderstand came from the furnace room, Charlie said, so I said I suppose there is some defect in the pipes which ought to be mended, and Charlie said Yes, and the defects aren't all in the pipes, either. Charlie does say some of the strangest things sometimes. And I learned another lesson from the Girls' Rest Room. You know they say young people can rest by having a good time and I certainly believe it, because right on the door was the name Rest Room and inside was a sign saying This Is A Rest Room, Please Keep It Such, but those girls weren't resting like we older folks do, they were dancing and sewing and singing and talking very loud. I couldn't understand why there were two or three girls on cots, and not looking very happy, but maybe they were older girls, and had old-fashioned ideas of a rest room.

But anyhow, I guess Charlie doesn't go in there very often. On the whole I guess his environments are pretty good.

Love,

Annie.

prominence. The poor referee was accused of doing the springing act for both teams. The result of the first meeting of these two teams was in favor of the Assassins, but the second game found the long-haired brush-pushers the victors.

Thus the League closed its season with no one team the claimant of the title. Ultimate results of the League may be said to include the discovery that the students need some other outlet than to eat every noon hour; that there must be some other amusement than to lounge around the assembly at the end of the fourth period.

Thus the school-body welcomed the Lunch Boycott League even if it did cause stomach-aches, heart-aches, and other kinds of cakes. We hope that next year will find a bunch ready to sue and lie, as this gang would do, on any court.

MAX RASKIN.

Athletics

The Lunch Boycott League

With the close of the regular basketball season, there grew up what came to be known on the campus as the Lunch Boycott-League, composed of light and dark-haired gladiators with and without pineapple haircuts, who, either from lack of money or lack of reason, saw a chance to give deadly competition to the food profiteers. In fact, the speculation between these boycotters and the food providers grew to such an extent that Mrs. Fairall was forced, on one occasion, to donate ice cream gratis. And what is more, the authorities of the grub market were moved to paint the lunch room, something which the class of '04 celebrated.

The field of endeavor which these food syndicalists chose was to play basketball during the noon hour. Aside from refraining, themselves, from mastication, they caused the stomach downfall of a number of their followers. Many enthusiasts, in addition, came late to their fifth hour classes; but some of these ardent dieters were excused because of the fact that some of our economical professors saw an opportunity of evading heritage and custom—that of eating lunch—and themselves came to the gymnasium, and themselves came late to class.

In all, there were four teams who battled on empty stomachs. And contrary to the wisdom of Napoleon, there was wim, wigor, and vitality in every struggle that occurred. For instance, the first battle was between the Boilermakers and the Bohemians. After a few minutes of steady strife, the Bohemians bombarded the battle bromations of the Bengineers' bamp. The Boilermakers' tents blew up. The Bohemians of the Art School drew away with flying colors.

The Tarzans and the Assassins fought the next fray. It was an easy victory for the butcher squad. The Tarzans then lost to the a-bit-more-civilized Boilermakers, and in order to be consistent (for no one ever accused a Tarzan, such as Delaney, Schechtman, Cass, or Rice, of vacillation) they ended their contribution to the success of the league by losing to the Bohemians. By some unforeseen happening (some of the followers of the vivisectionists attributed it to the fool moon on that day) the Assassins lost to the Pokras-Mouse-Lenkin-Hass-King combination, in other words, the Boilermakers.

The great battle, however, occurred when the Assassins and the Bohemians climbed into the ring. It was on that day that Mrs. Fairall passed out the cool stuff to keep the customers intact. But of no avail. Every Normal student—be he he, or be she she—flocked to the gymnasium, especially those who were a bit shy on either lunch money or preparation for fifth hour class. Nevertheless, a crowd was not absent, for there were a great number of that calibre. But to the game. "Tham" Jauss of the murderers started to kill everything that came his way; and the ball is what suffered. It was never shot so many times in its existence—with such accuracy. Then there was Plump Rippa, the other dark horse, who had Wulff and Skinney Schweers of the Bohemians bow-wow before him.

In the last part of the game the Holsor attachment, McDermott, and the referee for the Bohemians; and Foley, Stoll, Raskin, and the referee for the Assassins sprung into

The Adventure She Failed to Tell

The story which must accompany this sad picture is one of tragic import in the career of the young lady on the right. It took this determined-looking "bobby" with all of the authority of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland behind him, to convince Miss Steinfort of the futility of trying to evade the law. The setting for the melodrama was the port of Dover. The time was last summer on a dark, foggy evening. A ship, from Cadiz, had just come to dock. Down the gangway walked our Spanish instructor, fresh from the land of bull-fights. In both of her arms, and weighing her down, was the ill-fated bag which you see in the picture. When she was accosted by the doughty agent of the revenue department, she explained that the bag held but a change of clothing. But when she learned that some Englishman hail from Missouri, she attempted to use the arts of the senorita to gain her ends. But the bobby had evidently been vamped by experts, so he tore the precious burden from her sobbing grasp,—and behold,—he extracted three bottles of the choicest Madeira wine. In handcuffs and tears the captive was taken to the customs office where the contents of the three bottles were destroyed after the manner of the ages. This picture was taken after the captor and captive had returned from court greatly cheered by the proceeding. Burns sure had the right dope when he said: "Rum is the root of all evil."

In Feudal Days

In days of old
When knights were bold,
And feuds were all the rage,
There lived a knight
He was a fright
His suit fit him, — oh, far too tight.

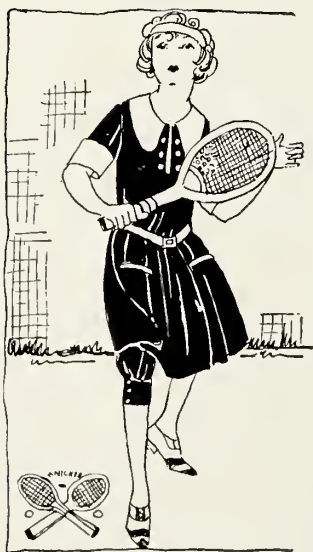

There was a maid
Who often layed
Upon the seashore there;
And as she slept
The knight, he crept
And stole a lock of hair.

Now, when she woke,
Her head she poked,
“One lock is gone!” she cried.
“I loved that curl,”
Cried the frantic girl,
“It was my joy and pride!”

Then went she home
And all alone
She prayed, for her revenge.
She thought in vain,
For no help came
Her troubled mind to cleanse.

The course of study emphasizes appreciation of the principals of education connected with kindergarten work.

Among the subjects provided are Kindergarten Theory, Technics, Principles, and Teaching. Observation and practice enable the student to see how the principles are applied, and to gain experience in applying them.

The requirements of the kindergarten teacher in music, nature study, and art are considered in special classes in those subjects.

She went outside
Her tears to hide
Into the dungeon dank with mold.
The guards all slept
While the maiden crept
Into the dungeon dank with mold.

She turned the lock,
And moved the block,
Then wide the gate she swung.
"Oh, Oswald dear,
Look! look, I'm here,
Please go before they come."

My kodak lens

And my eyes

Saw you

As you stood that day, your hat in your hand,

A wild young satyr,

With the sunshine dancing on the spring
leaves about you.

Two pictures were made and rolled away
tightly,

The one in the kodak,

The other in my heart.

They will both be printed,—

One in black and gray;

It will show the soft curve of your chin

The dimple near your smiling mouth,

The tiny pucker between your arching brows.

But it can never reproduce

The delicate crimson of your cheeks,

The light in your brown eyes,

The gleam on your black hair,

The catch in your childish voice when you said,

“Your mother will be lonely.”

It is only a print.

It may be torn, or crumpled, or burned.

But this, the print of my heart's picture, is everlasting.

Dear Mabel:
"How you was?" Member how often said that! Remember when we were living in Kenosha: I just loved those three months in spite of the bread that came over me when supervision came. Remember Kobe's Chap & Lucy "joint"? and the pie? "My pie" he said. He is. But we didn't go there again. And the "Orange" we were there for the rise and fall weren't.
